

Biographical Details

Hannah Griffin

Assistant Director, Fraud Investigation & Dispute Services, Ernst & Young

Hannah is a Fellow of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales and joined EY in March 2011. She has specialised in forensic accounting since 2015 and, in recent years, has focussed on quantifying business losses arising from the compulsory acquisition of land. Hannah leads EY's compulsory purchase team of over 10 professionals that are geographically spread across the country, including Scotland. The team has worked on claims in the region of £100,000 to £90m and can support with early case assessments and negotiation discussions through to providing expert witness evidence.

Hannah's primary area of specialism is advising on financial and commercial issues in relation to compensation arising on extinguishment and/or relocation. Hannah works with clients to develop strategies for dispute management involving negotiated settlements, mediations and arbitration. She has worked with Acquiring Authorities, Developers and Affected Land Owners. Hannah enjoys working collaboratively with the wider.

Refreshment Breaks Sponsor:

Lunch Sponsor:

Drinks Reception Sponsor:

